In 1921, business and railroad executives established Franklin County Country Club for holiday outings with important guests and family. As golf became more popular, the membership expanded and a larger clubhouse, restaurant and additional facilities were built including a banquet hall, locker room, pro shop and a swimming pool.

Golf at Franklin County Country Club requires contemplation and thought because of the placement of water hazards, the maturity of hardwood trees, tall pines lining the fairways, and the presence of earth berms and bunkers. Zoysia Fairways on rolling terrain were the final touch.

Leisure golfers aren't abused and experienced players don't feel like they have just taken an easy stroll through the park. FCCC looks, feels and plays like a true resort golf course.
